

Taking action on child poverty

10 December 2018, 9am-1.30pm

NSPCC Scotland and the Centre for Child Wellbeing and Protection are pleased to host a half day conference to mark the start of Challenge Poverty Week.

One in four children in Scotland live in poverty. Austerity measures across the UK have put families under increasing strain, and has seen a sharp increase in rates of families living in poverty in Scotland. This event will consider the challenges these families face, its impact, and some of the work that is being done to support children, families and practitioners in Scotland and the UK. The event will be suitable for academics, students and practitioners who work with families in conditions of stress, and who have an interest in poverty alleviation.
